

AUSTRALIAN CUSTOMS NOTICE NO. 2007/58

Notices of Objection to Importation Trade Marks Act 1995

The Trade Marks Act 1995 allows the registered owner, or in certain circumstances, the authorised user of a trade mark to lodge a Notice of Objection with the Australian Customs Service (Customs), objecting to the importation of goods which infringe their trade mark. Unless revoked, a Notice of Objection remains in force for a period of four years (effective 23 October 2006) from the date of commencement.

The attached Schedule sets out the registered owners and authorised users who have lodged Notices of Objection under the Trade Marks Act 1995 since September 2007 (ACN 2007/53). Descriptions of the relevant trade marks are also set out in the Schedule.

A detailed list of all current trade mark Notices of Objection is available on the Customs website at www.customs.gov.au > media publications and forms > Customs notices > Intellectual Property – Notices of Objection > trade marks

For each particular trade mark described, the Schedule makes reference to a particular “class” of goods. This refers to the classes of goods prescribed in Schedule 1 to the Trade Marks Regulations 1995 and along with a description of the goods, is used to describe the type of goods for which the particular trade mark is registered. Prospective importers of such goods should seek further advice from Customs regarding the ambit of any Notice of Objection set out in the Schedule.

Goods referred to in this ACN, that are manufactured outside and imported into Australia, and are subject to the control of Customs under the meaning of the Customs Act 1901 are liable to be seized by Customs if:

- they have applied to them, or in relation to them, a sign that is substantially identical with, or deceptively similar to, a trade mark listed in the attached Schedule; and
 - are goods in respect of which the notified trade mark is registered;
- unless it can be established that the goods do not infringe the relevant trade mark.

Part 12 of the Trade Marks Act 1995 details the circumstances in which the use of a trade mark may, or may not, amount to an infringement. For example, a trade mark is not infringed where the mark in question has been applied to, or in relation to, goods with the consent of the registered owner of the trade mark. However, where the trade mark is applied by, or with the consent of, an overseas owner of the trade mark and the goods are imported into Australia without the consent of the Australian trade mark owner, this may still represent an infringement.

People who are intending to import goods that potentially may be liable to seizure under the provisions of the Trade Marks Act 1995 should consider seeking advice from Customs, or a suitably qualified legal practitioner, as to the implications of the trade marks legislation, and the meaning of terms such as “substantially identical with”, “deceptively similar to” and “an infringement of” a trade mark.

Where a registered trade mark owner or an authorised user with a current Notice of Objection in place request additional trade marks to be added to their Notice, only the additional trade marks are included at the end of this ACN. The inclusion of additional trade marks in the ACN is to ensure that ACN subscribers have all the appropriate up-to-date information.

Copies of the relevant Notices of Objection have been forwarded to the Customs office in the capital city of each State and Territory. Importers, or their advisers, who require further information regarding the Notices of Objection, or Customs role in respect of those Notices, should contact the Customs Information and Support Centre on 1300 363 263 or the Intellectual Property Rights Group on (02) 6275 6577.
